STAY TUNED: THIS PROGRAM IS COMING TO YOU FROM KOLPING RADIO!

Your Kolping radio committee has been making progress toward establishment of a Catholic Kolping radio station broadcasting on FM frequency 102.3 as station WKBR-LP. Kolping has received a Not-for-Profit FM band license for that frequency. We are acquiring an antenna and necessary broadcast equipment to get started.

This will enable us to evangelize—spreading our message and knowledge of Blessed Father Kolping—his work and teachings in the Hudson area. We hope to build our Kolping radio identity and provide opportunities for volunteering (i.e. service hours to maintain broadcast feed, learning in the areas of programming, communications and the technical aspects of broadcasting operations). We look forward to serving the Kolping family as well as the larger community with all a Catholic radio station can offer. If you have radio interest or experience, please email kdengler67@hotmail.com.

MORE NEWS AND NOTES

Joseph Sartorius Scholarship Winning Essay: Written by Alexa Richardson, daughter of Donna Richardson. She attends Niagara University, studying Early Childhood Special Education. She was awarded $2,000.

Pope Francis and the recently assembled Catholic Bishops released a preliminary document calling for the Church to welcome and accept gay people, unmarried couples and those who have divorced as well as the children of those less traditional families. How would your relationship with the Church change if these modifications were adopted?

What does it mean to be a traditional, practicing Catholic? I believe the definition of a true, practicing Catholic is someone who abides by moral principles and is accepting of anyone. A good Catholic is also someone who practices daily their faith, prays to our loving God, and is kind and giving to all. We should lead in the acceptance of change for the good, as we are the largest Christian-Catholic Church with over 1.2 billion followers worldwide. If the church adopted these principles calling to accept people of different dynamics, sexual orientations, and family structures, I would be even more proud to be a practicing Catholic.

As of now, this document is not a law or any type of rule that the Church must follow. It is being used as a suggestion and should only be used as a reference. If the Church were to adopt these modifications, I would support and encourage their decisions as the world in this day and age is changing. The Bible was written thousands of years ago in a time that resembles our lives today in very few aspects. It could be said the text of the Bible would be different if it were written during any other time period due to the different ideas of ethics, religion, law, and daily life. The same could be said about the U.S. Constitution; without the addition of amendments to compensate for the changing of our country, African Americans would still be slaves and women would still have the inability to vote. People of this faith must realize we are all apart of humankind. So we must be both human and kind. We must love and respect all those around us aside from their decisions as individuals and what makes them different. Instead seek their similarities, praise them for their strength and ability to stand up for their beliefs.

There has been a lot of controversy in regards to people of different sexual orientations entering into the church. I believe that gay people should be accepted into the church because, regardless of what their sexual identity is, they are still people of God. They are Gods children, made just how He wanted. It has been stated that gay people have, "gifts and qualities to offer the Christian community." Despite sexuality, everyone has opinions and ideas that may benefit the church. The bible states "May the God of endurance and encouragement grant you to live in such harmony with one another, in accord with Jesus Christ, that together you may with one voice glorify the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore welcome one another as Christ has welcomed you, for the glory of God". In short, we must learn to accept one another and live together in harmony; God accepted us into this world as we are so we must accept all of humanity as they are.

As for the divorced, the Church states that marriage is indissoluble and a divorce must be annulled by the Church to be recognized. The assembly of the Bishops and Pope Francis has brought up the idea of "real world problems." It seems unrealistic to say that divorce will not occur. In our faith, we like to think that divorce is not the end result, but sometimes situations occur that are not foreseen, therefore resulting in a complicated and costly divorce. It may not be either spouse's wish as a practicing Catholic, however, these situations can be urgent, like domestic abuse situations, and in the best interest of all involved, especially children. Pope Francis even stated that he realizes divorce may be "imposed, not chosen." If couples believe they are making the right decision, considering all parties involved, then they must be appreciated for their honesty and willingness to try and make it work. They should not be looked down upon for a bad decision. As people, we all will make mistakes in our lifetime. Divorce might be a rut in the road. However, I do believe God's ultimate test for us is how we honor our mistakes, how we respond and rise above our mistakes, and how we fix them.

The children of these less traditional families should be accepted as well. Their parents, whether married or unmarried, single, divorced, or of another sexuality, are just as much human as anyone else. If someone is working hard and supplying for their family, they should be accepted. Certain circumstances have to be taken into concern when considering children and families of the divorced, unmarried, or gay. This generation has strayed away from "traditional." We as humans need to consider these changing times and make exceptions where appropriate.

Being active in this faith, we should not only be modeling Catholics, but model citizens. If our world is continuously evolving into a more diverse place, even if it seems less conventional than our ancestors experienced: consisting of people with different sexual orientations, less conventional marriages, and less fortunate families, shouldn't we then modify our beliefs? At the end of the day, we are all people of God, despite our decisions, despite our beliefs, despite our preferences ... and the list keeps going. God put his son, Jesus, on Earth to save us all, as he loves us all. Alike, Pope Francis wishes to stray away from "condemnation of unconventional family situations and toward understanding, openness, and mercy" and I believe it would be a step in the right direction not only for the Catholic Church but for a better world and better tomorrow.

New Members Brunch

Photos by Gloria McSweeney

Submitted by Jan Kessler and Lou Colletti

We were able to start the day off with a very hearty brunch including waffles, bacon, sausage roast beef fruit, muffins, omelets to order

Our chefs Kathy Weinborg, Jennifer & Michael Scheuermann, Al Ahrens were all working hard to make sure there was plenty of food for everyone to enjoy. All the new members joined us for brunch and immediately after Fr. Bretone celebrated mass at Assmuth Hall. The new member ceremony was held and Katrina Dengler our Kolping Board President and Gerhard Schmitt our Kolping VP inducted 45 new members into our Kolping Family.

Some of these new members have a past history with Kolping: Meg Fuchek (Bob Hemsing's granddaughter) is a 5th generation Kolping Member of the Hemsing Family. New member Link Roland's father was a Kolping Member in Cologne, Germany during the 1920s. Also Alwin & Karen Park—Alwin's mother was a Kolping Member and lives in Rhaderfehn, Germany. Alwin called his Mother to tell her he was being inducted and she was very happy to hear that.

We thank Ted and Teddy Dengler for setting up the sound system. Thank you to Lou Colletti, Bob Hemsing and Muriel Fullam for all your help with preparation for mass at Assmuth Hall and the new member ceremony. All the volunteers are greatly appreciated we now have many new members to join in at all of our future events. The beautiful music was provided by Don Simons. Special thank you to Walter McDonald for helping with the new member ceremony and for taking care of Buddy (Fr. Bretone's best friend).

Memorial Day at KOH submitted by Jan Kessler; photos by Charles Ruppmann and Muriel Fullam

It was perfect weather for a perfect barbecue on May 25th. Over 130 members gathered at Kolping on Hudson for barbecued ribs, bratwurst, hotdogs and hamburgers and delicious salads. We thank all the Kolping barbeque crew for serving up a great meal: Jennifer Ahrens Scheuermann, Mike Scheuermann, Tracie Truncellito, Al Ahrens, Nick Colletti, Al Vogl, Lou Colletti, Doris Petsche, Gerry Ladenhauf, Rich Povolonis and Heidi Umland. Jennifer and Tracie made some great specialty items—zeppole, fried pickles and French fries. Its always great to meet up with family and friends at KOH. A huge thank you to all those that attended and those who donated items.

Movie Night at KOH

submitted by Jan Kessler

Over 240 families attended movie night and watched Lego on our big screen - the weather was perfect and many were able to get there early enough to enjoy the pool and barbecue. A very special thank you to Max Fuchek for all his efforts in coordinating all the details and activities of this event. Max enlisted the help of volunteers Tom & Shannon Walsh, Chris Beloff, Dan & Suann Stewart. The barbeque pit volunteers were Mike Scheuermann, Alfred Vogl, Stephen Lovasz, Nick Colletti, Dennis Noll. Isabelle Lovasz did a great job stuffing all the popcorn bags, Robert & Miriam Herman & Jenna Richardson helped out with all the serving. Rob & Josh were kept busy with many projects. Ted, Joan and Teddy Jr. were all there to help with organizing the event along with cashier, parking assignments and everything else that needed to be done. Beverly Fuchek spent hours at the front gate collecting the entrance fee along with Marie McAndrew.

Thank you to our KOH staff that are always working hard to be sure that everything is running smoothly and getting all the preparations done well in advance—Heidi Umland, Doris Petsche, Rich Povilonis, Christine and Danielle Kern, Dan Benge, and Christel Scheuermann.

Stories of Interest

Muslims in the Wehrmacht

submitted by Martin A. Kelly

Foreign mercenaries have been used in armies from time immemorial. The Romans had their Balearic Islands archers and Julius Caesar had Spanish swordsmen as his personal bodyguard. And of course the pope still has his Swiss Guards.

We recall how King George III of England hired Hessian troops to help suppress restive colonists in America. This fact is depicted in the painting "Washington Crossing the Delaware," by the German-American painter Emanuel Leutze, which shows Washington and his soldiers on the way to raid the Hessian encampment.

As time went on, wars became bigger and the use of foreigners as combatants became greater. Take World War II on the Axis side alone. There were, among others,

1. The Blue Division, made up of Spaniards who wanted to repay the Third Reich for their aid in defeating the Loyalists (Reds) in the Spanish Civil War (1936 – 1939).
2. The Charlemagne Division, made up of Vichy Frenchmen (100,000) who sided with the Nazis.
3. The St. George Brigade, composed of fifty pro-fascist Moseley Englishmen who aligned themselves with Germany.

In all, there were 350,000 non-Germans fighting for the Third Reich. The most unlikely combatants were the Muslims whose story is told in David Motadel's Islam and Nazi Germany's War. In the Middle Ages the Muslim Turks made inroads into what would become the Soviet Union. Where the pashas led their troops, the star and crescent followed, and conversions were made among the conquered.

The descendants of these converts were basically anti-Stalinist. In June 1941, Germany invaded Russia and found that her armies had captured centers of these Caucasian Muslims. Two years of war had taken its toll on Germany's manpower reserve. Could they enlist these Muslims in a common cause?

Rhetoric on racial superiority was laid aside. The Nazis portrayed themselves as liberators of these captive, anti-Soviet victims. They also demonized the British, French, and Dutch as exploiters of their co-religionists in their colonies (India, Algeria, Egypt, the East Indies, etc.).

With concessions made with regard to their religious and dietary laws, and with imams assigned as chaplains, Muslims enlisted in large numbers. With their unique uniforms, general issue plus the traditional red fezzes, 54 battalions of these stalwarts served loyally and bravely not only in the East but also in France, Italy and the Balkans.

This phenomenon did not go unnoticed by the Allies. At the Yalta Conference, February 1945, Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin met. The issue of these foreign fighters came up, and it was decided that in all cases they must be returned to the lands of their nationality. The name given to this repatriation was called "Operation Keelhaul." The fate of these soldiers of fortune is a mooted question.

Meeting With Bishop Cardone

Submitted by Gerhard Schmitt

On May 20th my wife, Alex, and I had the distinct pleasure of meeting Bishop Chris Cardone from the Auki Diocese, Solomon Islands and Father Tom Cardone of Kellenberg Memorial High School. The brothers took time from their very busy schedules to meet with us and to graciously accept the proceeds from Kolping's 2015 Lenten Project. Bishop Chris was very grateful and engaging. The proceeds from the Lenten project and from the Kellenberg community will be used to build additional classrooms in the school at the St. Theresa the Little Flower parish. He told us about the challenges that he and his flock face in that remote part of the globe. Unlike here in the States, large scale construction projects are not preceded by a trip to a building supply house to purchase materials. Rather, the workers head into the local forest to cut down trees, which they mill themselves. Also, they use the local sand and gravel to fabricate all the cinderblocks. Continuing construction of the school, additional vocational training, and the desire to build a Marianist High School in the future are some of the goals of this very dedicated man. We ended our meeting with the two very engaging and driven men of God, with the promise that they had a friend in Kolping. Who knows? Maybe someday a Kolping Family will find itself forming in His Excellency's Diocese.
