Scholarship Thank-yous

G
To Bob Hensley
& the Kolping Scholarship
Committee,
I am writing to express my gratitude for being chosen as the
Joseph Satorius Scholarship winner.
I am so thankful to have had the opportunity to express my faith to all of you. Your recognition means so much to me.
all the best,
Ginereine F. Longworth

Dear Catholic Kolping Scholarship
Committee,

I would like to thank you for your consideration and extreme generosity. Your Joseph Satorius College Scholarship gift will be used toward my education at the University of Scranton. I hope to continue my involvement in the church and community at Scranton
and here at home in Montrose.

Sincerely,
Michael Ludatky

Dear Mr. Hemsing and the members of the Kolping Scholarship Committee:

I was thrilled to receive such a generous award from the Catholic Kolping Society. The recognition for all of my efforts and hard work in high school, Church and community means a lot to me and the scholarship award came just as my tuition bill was due, so it was a big help. I greatly appreciate the support and generosity the Catholic Kolping Society has shown me.

I am very excited to be entering my freshman year at Quinnipiac University in the fall, pursuing a future in Business. I was accepted into the QU accelerated Business program so I will be working very hard to earn my Business Bachelor's Degree in 3 years and earn my Business Master's degree in my forth year. Your award and recognition is a very positive start to my studies in college and I assure you I will continue to make the Kolping Society proud.

Thank you again for your generous support.

Sincerely,

Jillian O'Reilly

***SOLAR PROJECT UPDATE ***

As requested by the membership at the regular General Meeting in March, we held a special General Meeting on June 25 to discuss the Kolping on Hudson solar project. In the fall, the board voted to sign a contract to install solar panels in the upper lot at KOH. However, at the General Meeting in March, a motion was made to put the project on hold and to have a special General Meeting to discuss the project. In preparation, we mailed out information and a FAQs sheet on the solar project to the general membership to inform all about the project. We also printed the information in this bulletin. At the meeting, the membership had an opportunity to ask questions, then it went to a vote. The plan was voted down by the membership.

SECRETARY JOB OPENING

Fourth of July BBQ

Submitted by Jan Kessler

Over 120 members and friends seem to know the perfect place to enjoy a great barbecue. The weather was perfect for those that wanted to enjoy the pool or just relax on the patio enjoying the spectacular Hudson River View. The barbecue started at 1pm, and we thank Heidi Umland, Helmi Pinner, Gerde Mohapp, Lou Colletti and Miriam Herman for getting up at the break of dawn to prepare all the salads and set up everything for the day's event. We greatly appreciate our volunteers Dennis Noll, Dan Benge and Nick Colletti for spending their afternoon cooking hamburgers, hotdogs, spareribs and bratwurst on the grill. Thank you to our volunteer Christel Scheuermann for greeting all of our pool guests and collecting the fees as she does all summer long. Christine Kern and Lisa Giaquinto were extremely busy all day long and we thank them for all that they do.

There was quite a variety of desserts to choose from and we thank all those that brought some really special homemade treats: Rick Hiltzley—Stuffed Strawberries with Blueberries
Dorothy Glomann—Chocolate Pan Cookie
Helmi Pinner—Cake

Although Jen Scheuermann didn't attend, she left sliced apples that Lou Colletti used to make a French Apple Pie—"No Waste at KOH"!

Thanks to all the volunteers who cleaned up all dishes, grills and patio after we all went home after a wonderful holiday BBQ at KOH.

Murder Mystery Night Submitted by Jan Kessler; photos by Charles Ruppmann

Kathy Weinborg hosted her second murder mystery at KOH, and her story line and cast of characters were most intriguing. Kathy started the evening by narrating the plot and introducing all the characters—Kelly Noll as Ellie, who ultimately was murdered by strangulation—and the rest of the cast of possible suspects to the murder—Nick Colletti as Jackie the bartender, Adam Engle, Wall Street broker as Ellie's husband, John Weigand as millionaire Joe, Kim Parra as police officer Ryan, Richie Povilonis as Yacht Club Manager Jeanne Pierre, and Julie Diloreto as Anya. All of the actors dressed for their part and we loved the creativity from gold chains, tattoos, suits and ties. They were all so entertaining and gave such a great performance we can only think the next stop for them will be Broadway.

We thank Kathy Weinborg for a very entertaining evening and for a delicious meal. Not only did Kathy write the murder mystery script, seek out all the characters, but she also prepared the meal. Who could have guessed that one person could have done all of this. Thank goodness she had some help in the kitchen and we thank Mike Weinborg, Donna Richardson, Connor LaRocque, Kristan Szoldatits and Kayla Noll.

During dinner each table group of guests had discussions about who might have done the crime and then narrowed it down to one person. We had some great detectives amongst us as all of the following guests solved the crime.

Table 4 - Christel Scheuermann, Gerti Mohapp, Annemarie Urban, Phyllis Coletti, John & Johanna McGreevy and Helmi Pinnter

Table 6 - Izzy, Stephen & Alina Lovasz, Meghan Allen, Kathy Allen, Lou Colletti, Howard & Magdalena Jaeger

Table 10 - Maria, Jim, Robert, Hazel, Hugo & Hertha Stang, Joe & Linda Szoldatits & Judy & Peter Mersits

Table 12 - Kathy Davidson, Carmen Sweeney, Muriel Fullam, Linda Ahrens, Jan & Art Kessler, Ann & Bob Hemsing and Katrina Dengler

Table 13 - Cara Dennehy, Siobhan Dennehy, Amy Ruppmann, Jesse Colon & Charles Ruppmann

We truly appreciate Kathy Weinborg for bringing us all together for such an enjoyable experience and we thank Charles Ruppmann for capturing all of the memorable photos during an evening full of fun and laughter.

Tropical Night submitted by Jennifer Scheuermann; photos by Maria Stang, Muriel Fullam, and Stephan Lovasz

The KOH patio was beautifully decorated for the occasion and most people wore their tropical attire. Over 70 people enjoyed a very delicious tropical inspired dinner with the choice of sweet and sour chicken or roast pork with gravy. The bartenders were busy serving up an assortment of fresh drinks like fresh strawberry pina coladas and margaritas! It was a great evening of dancing to the dj's music which lasted late into the evening. The weather was warm and it rained a short period of time, but it did not stop anyone from enjoying the evening. Dinner was prepared by Kathy & Mike Weinborg, Kathy & Jim Reilly, and Jerry Ladenhauf. The servers for the evening festivities were Kristen Szoldatits, Conner LaRocque, Izzy Lovasz and Paloma. Thanks to Alfred Vogl and Michael & Jennifer Scheuermann for donating and preparing the whipped key lime pie cupcakes that were served for dessert, and thanks to Lou Colletti for donating the linzer cookies that were also enjoyed later on in the evening! Thank you to all of the KOH staff, kitchen crew, volunteers, and servers for all their hard work to help make this event successful every year. It is always a fun night and everyone looks forward to it each year.

Stories of Interest

“Fatal Fiasco” submitted by Martin A. Kelly

German-Americans need not look into other ethnic groups for lynchers—they have a prime example among their own.

One pitiful case was Robert Prager, a 30-year-old from Dresden who had spent half his life in the U.S., arriving in 1905. He resided in the St. Louis area, a center of German immigration.

A century ago, immigrants like Prager were the targets of anti-German hysteria during World War I. Most German-Americans avoided controversy with their own and other groups. Robert Prager was an exception, however.

Prager was the type who drew attention—in part because he was a know-it-all who could not back down in a debate. He had a certain peculiarity in his makeup that triggered a white-hot temper. He was quarrelsome with people who did not agree with his ideas on ways of doing things. He was of short stature and blind in one eye. Maybe he was trying to compensate with a “macho attitude” about the war.

Working in the southern Illinois coal field, Prager clashed with the coal-smudged fraternity and was rejected by the union for a long list of defects—but most importantly, he looked like a spy to the miners.

In fact, Prager had tried to be a good American. He had his naturalization papers and even tried to join the U.S. Navy, but washed out due to the near-blindness.

On April 4, a group of men seized Prager and placed him on humiliating display. He was wrapped in Old Glory and was forced to kiss the flag and recite the Pledge of Allegiance as he was paraded around town. A cop interceded and placed the German in jail for his own good. Fearing escalating vigilantism, the Mayor ordered all taverns to close early. Sotted barflies poured out onto Main Street, where the growing mob bristled about the disloyal German. Someone shouted, “Let’s get him!”

Three hundred men surged toward the city jail. As cops looked away, the crowd rampaged through the building and found Prager in the basement. Again he was marched through town draped in the flag. Someone added a rope necklace to his ensemble. With Joseph Riegel, a 28-year-old miner and cobbler at the lead, the mob rumbled west, stopping at midnight beside a tall hackberry tree.

Prager understood his destiny. He asked for paper and ink and penned a farewell to his family in Dresden. “Dear Parents,” he wrote. “I must, on this the fourth day of April 1918, die. Please pray for me, my dear parents. This is my last letter and testament. Your dear son and brother, Robert Paul Prager.”

Riegel tried to hoist Prager up but failed. “Come on, fellows,” he called out. “We’re all in on this! Let’s not have any slackers here!” Men stepped up, and Prager suffered a slow strangulation, swinging 10 feet in the air.

In Mid-America the event was cast as a “patriotic murder” of a disloyal enemy alien. Riegel presented himself as a hero, so he surely was shocked when he and 10 pals were indicted for murder and hauled into court. A ploy was used in their favor—the national anthem was played as the jury was about to deliberate. The jury’s verdict was not guilty on all counts.

After decades of public oblivion, Prager’s reputation was reconstructed in 2006 when the International Order of Odd Fellows moved his body from inhospitable Illinois to St. Matthew’s, an old German cemetery in St. Louis. The etching in a new headstone makes clear how he met his end: “THE VICTIM OF A MOB.”
