News & Notes

GERMAN AMERICAN DAY— OCTOBER 6

The German-American Day is celebrated on October 06, 2016. It is a day to celebrate the German American heritage. The German-American Day is celebrated annually and commemorates the date in 1683 when 13 German families from Krefeld near the Rhine landed in Philadelphia.

These families subsequently founded Germantown, Pennsylvania, the first German settlement in the original thirteen American colonies. Originally celebrated in the nineteenth century, German-American Day died out in World War I as a result of the anti-German sentiment that prevailed at the time.

The holiday was revived in 1983, when President Ronald Reagan proclaimed October 6th as German-American Day to celebrate and honor the 300th anniversary of German American immigration and culture to the United States. (With material from: Wikipedia).

THE POPE'S PRAYER INTENTIONS

Each month, our Holy Father's prayer intention is printed at the bottom of this page. Starting this year, the Pope presents only one prepared prayer intention per month, rather than the two presented before this year. He adds a second prayer intention each month related to current events or urgent needs, like disaster relief. The urgent prayer request helps mobilize prayer and action related to the urgent situation. The Apostleship of Prayer publishes these urgent prayer intentions on the website (www.apostleshipofprayer.org/2017-intentions) as soon as they receive them from the Vatican. What is the process in the preparation of the prepared prayer intentions? The faithful from around the world suggest papal prayer intentions to the international office of the Apostleship of Prayer in Rome. Through prayerful discernment the Apostleship selects a large number of them and submits them to the Vatican for further selection, with the Pope making the final selection. The Vatican then entrusts to the Apostleship of Prayer the official set of monthly prayer intentions, which the Apostleship then translates into the major world languages and publishes in print and digital formats.

OUR HOLY FATHER'S OCTOBER 2017 INTENTION

WORKERS AND THE UNEMPLOYED. That all workers may receive respect and protection of their rights, and that the unemployed may receive the opportunity to contribute to the common good.

LABOR DAY BBQ AT KOH submitted by Jan Kessler

The KOH barbeque was enjoyed by over 110 members, friends and family that arrived early in the afternoon to spend the day relaxing and enjoying the barbecue. The weather was absolutely gorgeous and all those in attendance were appreciative of how blessed we are to have such a beautiful location on the Hudson to enjoy all of our events.

Special thank you to all the following volunteers that spent all day grilling, which included Al Vogl, Michael Scheuermann, Dan Benge, Nick Colletti and Al Ahrens. Everyone was able to enjoy a choice of hamburger, hotdogs or spare ribs cooked to perfection.

There were so many delicious salads and side dishes, and we thank Helmi Pinner, Jennifer Scheuermann, Anneli Cantu, Heidi Umland, and Miriam Herman for cooking, dicing, slicing and serving so many special dishes. There were a lot of dessert selections and we thank Richard Hiltzley and Eric & Dorothy Glomann for making and sharing their special homemade desserts.

We greatly appreciate all those that attend and support our many annual events and we are so pleased that everyone could enjoy a special gathering with their family and friends.

A special thanks for our American & Kolping Flag Bearers, Gerhard Schmitt and Frank Weigand. Also those who carried the Kolping Banner: Karen Staub, Valentine Sartorius, Chris Ulrich & Alli Carruthers.

It takes many people contributing their gifts and talents, to make this day fun & successful. We had over 120 guests at Kolping House! Thanks to Frank, John Weigand and Jim Cappell for helping me with the entrance collection. Thanks to our Chef, Kathy Weinborg & Kolping House Manager, Giovanni. The food was excellent as always. His staff did a great job setting up the Ballroom. Donna Richardson always does a great job serving the food. Thanks to her and her servers: Alexa Richardson, Lisa Carruthers, Jerry Ladenhauf & Terese Portilla, for collecting the meal tickets. You can't have a German celebration without beer. Thanks to Heidi Umland for ordering our beer and Gerhard for coming up to KOH to pick up the beer, pretzel box and pretzels. Also Kolping Manger, Kenny Rose for purchasing wine, beer and much needed ice. Kenny also prints all the flyers and tickets. Our Bartenders: Gerhard Schmitt, Rodrigo, Mike Weinborg & Nick Colletti for all their hard work. After a great meal is dessert. “The Brooklyn Bridge and its German Roots”

submitted by Martin A. Kelly

The Brooklyn Bridge might easily have been named the Roebling Bridge considering its brilliant creator emerged from his father's engineering genius.

The father, Augustus Roebling was born in Muhlhausen, Germany on June 12, 1806. After a thorough education in bridge and public project construction, he came to America to fulfill his destiny. After making his mark in bridge building, he met Abram Hewitt, Mayor of New York, to finance a bridge to link Manhattan and Brooklyn in 1867. The work was begun, but before it was hardly started, the “engineer in chief” Augustus died from a wound which he suffered from a wharf collapse and tetanus had infected the injury. The mantle fell on “the second -in-command,” Washington Augustus Roebling, eldest son (May 26, 1837) to finish the project.

Washington had been a member of the National Guard of Trenton, and fought for the Union cause in the Civil War. It was Washington's good fortune during the final months of the war to marry Emily Warren, the sister of his commanding officer. They were intellectual equals, and their marriage would become a partnership critical to the Brooklyn Bridge.

The son worked feverishly at the project using a revolutionary cable called “steel wire” and caissons. The caisson was a wooden container, waterproof and airproof in which workmen labored on the bottom of the river beneath the weight of 400,000 ton tower which would support the super structure of the bridge.

The atmosphere within the caisson was maintained by air tight chambers. Unfortunately, one day, the chamber “blew” and Washington and several others were injured and contracted the “bends.” His illness forced Washington to his bed, and he stayed there for months on end. Even in this state, working through the pain, he led the bridge project.

Unable to give “on site” instructions, Washington enlisted his wife as courier between the work site and his home located in nearby Brooklyn Heights. Eventually, the work was completed in 1883.

As a mark of distinction for her help in the bridge's construction she was given the privilege of being the first person to ride a horse and carriage over the completed bridge. She was an icon to the emerging feminist movement.

For all his success, Washington could not escape his father's shadow. A monument honoring John Roebling stands in Trenton's Cadwalader Park. It was sculpted years after the elder Roebling's death. Since there were few good photos of the father, his son Washington posed for the artist. John Roebling may have the statue. But Washington Roebling has the bridge.

Washington Augustus Roebling died July 21, 1926. “He was a Man with a Span”.

A SPOT OF HUMOR Submitted by Kathy & Walter Weigand

LATE ONE NIGHT, a preacher was driving on a country road and had a wreck. A farmer stopped and said, “Sir, are you OK?”

The preacher said, “Yes, I’m fine. I had the Lord riding with me.”

The farmer said, “Well, you better let Him ride with me, because you’re gonna kill Him!”
